

Open Text Web Solutions (formerly RedDot Solutions) Version 9 - Release Notes

Open Text™ Corporation acquired RedDot Solutions in 2007. In October 2008, Open Text announced a name change and rebranding of the RedDot web content management (WCM) system. With all the underlying RedDot technology still in the backbone, the WCM is now called Open Text Web Solutions.

These release notes explain changes in the features available and procedures used within the SmartEdit interface. The User Guide has been updated to include the new features and procedural changes. Within the User Guide, footnotes were used to indicate new features and procedural changes.

What's the Same?

The Open Text WCM navigation is the same as the RedDot CMS navigation. The SmartEdit interface remains the same in Open Text as it was in RedDot. It is still a WYSIWYG interface and you navigate through your project the same way you navigate through your project's live site. You still click red dots to edit elements of a page. The Open Text WCM search feature is the same as the one introduced in RedDot CMS version 7.5. Your project's workflow remains the same.

What's Different?

There are new image editing options available in the Asset Manager. For detailed information about the new image editing options, please review Appendix D, Working with Images, in the updated User Guide for Open Text Web Solutions version 9.